Hello Folk:

Someone was asking about Forex grail and want to know how to use it. Now I found a short training video for you all use to watch.

<http://www.projectstreamer.com/users/canadianatom/meter/meter.html>

I also attached Forexgrail to this post so that you don't have to go to Downloads to search for it 😊

Hmmm if the movie is not good enough, how do you expect me to explain better than the movie.

Download forexgrail to your pc. Launch MT4, go to tools, then option and check the Enable DDE server box. Then launch the forexgrail excel file. Click on tab below to the desire page you like to read. That's it.

Microsoft/Addins/eurotool.xla one did not find

I think you'll have to load the Eurotool add-in in excel.
In excel, go to "tools"> "add-ins". You should have the Euro Conversion Tool there. Just activate the checkbox.

If you can't find the euro convesion tool there, select browse and you can find it in the directory "/program files/microsoft office/OFFICE11/Library". Select the file EUROTOOL and activate it.

Secondly make sure your decimal seperator is set to american standards otherwise it won't be able to import price feed from MT4.

Good luck

I found the forexgrail very usefull to get a quick overview of the market and recent price moves. I've taken the forexgrail and modified it a bit. Find it attached, I'll also add it to the download section.

I included the NZD and based it on more pairs. The more points, the better accuracy i figured.

I tried to include the NZDJPY as well to have more data points for the NZD but I couldn't get it to work with my IBFX feed (any suggestions?). NZDJPY is not quoted by FXDD, so I left it out for now.

For the rest it works like the forexgrail.

Has anyone figured out a good way to make this work for helping in trading? Also does anyone have any good tips on how to use this information profitably?

Thanx,

GK

You don't have to be a financial wizard, or a math genius like me. You don't need to spend years, slowly grinding your way to the top.

The Forex Grail is going to give you the boost you need, so you can jumpstart your trading, reaching your full earning potential.

It's actually an unfair advantage with secret access to the inside scoop of the Forex market!

The new TruTrend version of this is similar to the LeverageFx/TopGun Multimeter that runs almost $400/mo. I honestly won't ever attempt to place a trade without one of these LEADING indicators... if you do, you're an absolute moron...serious.

The forexgrail indicator is faulty in the sense that it derives its data from the highs and lows of the day, so if the time is 2:00 in the morning, that means that the highs and lows are only 2 hours behind, not 24 hours.

Tom Yeomans now has a complete system that uses his currency meter as the main ingredient. www.4xgrail.com
His currency meter is now software and no longer a spreadsheet version.
